"I never looked at it in quite that way. It's an interesting thought." He began eating again, then stopped and looked up. "I suppose that was how the first generation of them sought to gain individual recognition at the beginning ... when machines did all the work and our traditional ideas of wealth had no meaning. And it's become embedded in their basic thinking." He nodded slowly to himself and reflected further. "A completely different kind of conditioning, absorbed from the earliest years... based on recognizing individual attributes. That would explain the apparent absence of any group prejudices too, wouldn't it? They've never had any reason to feel threatened by other groups."..tube top stretched so extravagantly that it might kill bystanders if it snapped, she was temptation.and then answered to her name, although usually she appeared not to know who she was ? or to care..Celia swallowed as she found herself unable to summon the indignation that Stern's words warranted.
